Fully Functional 25" screen. No remote.

The Zenith Space Command Television, from the late 70's to the early 80's, features a unique housing with curved sides and a faux woodgrain finish. Known for its advanced ultrasonic remote control system, this TV allowed users to change channels, adjust volume, and power on/off without wires or batteries. It includes push-button controls and a green LED channel display, adding a retro touch. Ideal for film or TV sets depicting 1980s households, tech-centric environments, or nostalgic settings, this model brings authenticity and vintage flair to any production.
