Functional

The Kodak Vigilant Junior Six-20, produced from 1940 to 1948, is a folding camera that takes 6x9cm images on 620 film. It features a simple fixed-focus Kodet meniscus lens and a Dak shutter, with shutter speeds including "I", "B", and "T". This camera is suitable for movie or TV sets depicting mid-20th century photography, adding an authentic period detail to scenes involving vintage cameras.
