Non Functional

The Teletalk by Faraday system is a vintage nurse call and intercom solution commonly used in healthcare facilities to facilitate communication between patients and nursing staff. It features components such as speaker stations, call buttons, and indicator lamps, enabling patients to alert nurses efficiently. The system's durable construction and straightforward design made it a reliable choice for hospitals and care centers during its time of use.

This unit would be suitable for sets depicting mid-20th-century hospitals, nursing homes, or other medical facilities, adding authenticity to period-specific healthcare environments.
